COUNCIL, POWER MEN TO CONFER ON RATE OFFER

Regular Session of City Dads is Wednesday; Confab to Be Next Week

SECOND READING PLANNED

Officials Comparing Prices Paid in Other Central Ohio Communities

The Southern Ohio Electric Co.'s rate ordinance, establishing a new schedule for commercial and residential lighting, will probably be given its second reading before council Wednesday evening, then be referred back to the committee of council for recommendation.

Frank Marion, chairman of the committee, said Tuesday a special meeting will probably be called next week for light company officials and councilmen to hold a "talk fest" concerning the new rates.

Although councilmen have held no open discussions on the rates it is known all favor a short term contract instead of a 10-year contract as offered by the company.

BULLETIN

OGDEN, Utah, June 30.—(UP)—A terrified six-year-old deaf mute today led a neighborhood grocer to her home and disclosed a bloody shambles in which lay the bodies of her grandparents.

Her mother and her great-grandmother were unconscious. Police say the four had been attacked by the girl's stepfather, George Mortensen, 37, cosmetic salesman.

COURT'S ORDER DELAYS RURAL ELECTRICAL WORK

URBANA, June 30.—(UP)—Judge C. E. Buroker today had issued a temporary restraining order against the Pioneer Rural Electrification Cooperative, Inc., to restrain the cooperative from erecting poles and transmission lines across the property of A. F. and Mary E. Neese.

ELEVATOR AT M'COMB, O. IS DESTROYED BY FIRE

FINDLAY, June 30.—(UP)—The Farmers' Cooperative Association elevator at McComb, O., was destroyed by a $15,000 fire after it had been struck by lightning last night. Eight hundred bushels of corn, 300 bushels of wheat, and 700 bushels of oats burned. Frank Harris, the manager, saved the company records.

Hunt His Slayer

STATE TROOPERS and posemen hunted the slayer of Robert Kenyon, 10-year-old Detroit boy whose horribly mutilated body was found in a shallow river on his uncle's 2,500-acre farm west of Tawas City, Mich. Robert had been missing for six days when his body was found. Police were at a loss to establish a motive for the crime.

WATER UTILITY INQUIRY STARTS

Engineer Visits Fayette County City on Monday

WASHINGTON, C. H., June 30.—A survey to place the valuation of the plant of the Ohio Water Service Co., with a view to its purchase by the city, was started Monday by Donald T. Maxwell, engineer for Alvord, Burdick and Howson of Chicago, employed by the Stifel, Nickolaus & Co., Chicago.

The purchase would be arranged under a plan to issue mortgage loan bonds.

Maxwell spent Monday in this city, and returned to Chicago. A report on the valuation is expected within the next month or two, after which the city will determine the question of the purchase.

Under the plan the city would issue mortgage bonds to be retired by funds derived from water rentals, so that over a period of years the plant would be paid for and owned by the city.

HAILE SELASSIE READY TO TALK AGAINST ITALY

GENEVA, June 30.—(UP)—Emperor Haile Selassie, a tired, discouraged and disillusioned little brown man, took his seat at the League of Nations assembly today and waited his chance to denounce the world for failing to keep its promise to save his kingdom.

Undeterred by Italian threats of grave consequences, the negus insisted, against the embarrassed objections of such powers as France and Great Britain, on his right to speak.

The 52 nations which joined hands last autumn in the world's first attempt to halt war by applying sanctions sat with the negus to recognize their failure to save Ethiopia from Italy.

GRAHAM CONSIDERING TRESPASSING CHARGE

Mayor W. J. Graham had under consideration Tuesday the case of Virgil Moss, Weldon avenue, charged with trespassing on the property of Harry Butler, E. Corwin street on June 17. The charge was filed by Mr. Butler.

Mayor Graham said the case involved a landlord and renter and his decision would not be given until Wednesday.

EDISON GRADING ENDED

Grading on Edison avenue was completed Monday by the city service department. Since this work is completed, employees will continue patching various streets.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE CONFAB BEGINS AT 6:30

The Chamber of Commerce meeting will start at 6:30 p. m. Tuesday at the Pickaway Country Club. The chief business is an effort to organize a Retail Merchants' association. Two speakers, Barton Holl of Logan and Hulse Hays, postmaster, will be heard.

The graindealers' meeting is scheduled for 7:30 p. m. It will be held in the barn.

LEHMAN TO ASK HIS THIRD TERM IN STATE HOUSE

Pressure of President and Others Causes Governor to Change Mind

ALBANY, June 30.—(UP)—Governor Herbert H. Lehman, yielding to pressure from President Roosevelt, today announced his candidacy for re-election to a third term.

Lehman summoned newspapermen to his offices shortly before noon and announced he could "no longer resist the pleas of national and state Democratic leaders."

Planned to Retire

The governor had announced on May 20—that he planned to retire from public life at the end of his current term, but national Democratic leaders, believing he could aid the party cause in the presidential race, pleaded with him to rescind his retirement and seek a third term.

He was smiling broadly as he told Walter T. Brown, his secretary, to distribute the announcement among reporters.

His action did not come as a surprise to many of his close friends, since the governor had visited the president at his Hyde Park home over the week-end after receiving numerous ovations at the Democratic national convention.

STEPHEN SHISLER DIES AFTER BEING ILL TWO MONTHS

Stephen Shisler, 81, died at his home on W. Main street, in the apartment house at the rear of the Kroger store, Monday at 10 p. m. of complications following a two-month illness.

Mr. Shisler was named for Stephen A. Douglas, political foe of Abraham Lincoln.

Mr. Shisler was born in Hocking county, Aug. 12, 1854, the son of Jesse and Sarah Cave Shisler. He came to Pickaway county when a youth. Surviving are two sisters, Mrs. Alice Kirlin, Circleville, and Mrs. Bell Walisa, Columbus.

Funeral services will be held Wednesday at 4 p. m. at the grave with Rev. O. L. Ferguson, pastor of the Church of Christ in Christian Union, officiating. Burial will be in charge of the Albaugh Co.

REP. ZIONCHECK TO TAKE PLANE FROM CHICAGO

Seattle Solon Cries "I'll Be Back," as He Leaves Nation's Capital

PATROLMAN WITH HIM

Washington Police Guard "Madcap Solon" from Arrest in His Office

CHICAGO, June 30.—(UP)—Rep. Marlon A. Zioncheck is planning to fly from Chicago to Seattle tonight, reservations at Northwest Airlines Inc., revealed today.

"We'll take him if he isn't drunk, and if he's docile," airline officials said.

ABOARD "ZIONCHECK SPECIAL" ENROUTE TO SEATTLE, June 30.—(UP)—A sombre and chastened congressman, Marlon A. Zioncheck was en route home today, hoping to prove his sanity and to redeem himself.

He had escaped from a sanitarium for mental cases and had successfully fought off all efforts to return to confinement. He left Washington at midnight, aided by Capitol police who held off Maryland police wanting to arrest him as a fugitive from justice.

Zioncheck was guarded closely by Capitol Patrolman George Bishop who insisted he was traveling with him as a "companion," not as a guard. He permitted no one to approach their drawing room, permitted no passengers in the pullman except those who had space in it, and attempted to keep those passengers out of the aisles.

"Zioncheck is to see no one," he said. "He must have absolute quiet."

Studying His Answer

Behind the closed door of the drawing room, Zioncheck pondered just what he would tell his constituents who will pass on the question of his re-election this fall.

"Whatever it is," he said, "I'll be good."

Jauntily, he insisted that he was sane; that his confinement, first in a Washington hospital, later in the Maryland sanitarium, had been caused by the "persecution" of unnamed persons. He escaped Sunday morning, he said, because he didn't care to be persecuted and he feared he might actually lose his mind because of the proximity of genuine lunatics.

His exit from the scene of many of his wildest escapades was accomplished.

LABOR RELATIONS MEASURE IS HIT BY APPEAL COURT

CINCINNATI, June 30.—(UP)—The U. S. Court of Appeals ruled today in its first case of its kind affecting the automobile industry that the National Labor Relations board has no authority to issue an order on relations between a company and its employees where the company is engaged purely in intra-state business.

The decision was given in the case of the Fruehauf Trailer Co. of Detroit, which had appealed from an order of the labor relations board on the ground that it was not engaged in interstate commerce.

GROVER SMITH NAMED IN DIVORCE PETITION

Hattie May Smith, Lancaster pike, filed suit for divorce, custody of two children and alimony in common pleas court Monday against Grover Smith, now in the county jail, recently bound to the grand jury on an assault and battery charge.

They were married Nov. 30, 1913 in Williamsport and have two adopted children. Mrs. Smith charges neglect and cruelty.

Judge J. W. Adkins allowed a temporary restraining order against Smith.

GOVERNMENT TO SPEED AID TO DROUGHT-STRICKEN AREA

WASHINGTON, June 30.—(UP)—Administration leaders, fearing another catastrophic drought equal to that of 1934, worked feverishly today on plans for relief of hundreds of thousands of farmers.

Drought, intensive heat waves, devastating grasshoppers, and grain-destroying chinch-bugs combined to plague farmers throughout the area from the Ohio and Missouri rivers to the Canadian border.

Immediate problem was to find a method of providing sustenance for farmers in the spring wheat section—North and South Dakota, Colorado and Wyoming—whose crops have been burned out by drought and blistering heat.

Agencies joining A special committee, appointed by Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace, planned daily meetings until the drought is broken, coordinating work of various relief agencies—WPA, AAA, the Resettlement administration, and the Federal Surplus Commodity corporation.

The group hoped to have definite relief recommendations ready for submission to President Roosevelt later this week. Enlargement of WPA and RA activities in order to pump cash into the area, inauguration of a cattle purchase program, and expansion of FSCC activities all were discussed at the committee's first meeting yesterday.

Observers believed that the first concrete step of the federal government probably would be institution of new WPA and RA projects in the spring wheat area, inasmuch as that area has been hardest hit thus far.

A federal cattle purchase program, it was believed, would be

FRENCH STRIKE SPREADS SOUTH

Shipping Union With 10,000 Listed May Walk-Out

French labor disturbances, keeping 100,000 workers on strike in 20 departments, spread to Algiers today.

A general strike was threatened by the shipping union at Marseilles and 10,000 shipyard workers at Saint Nazaire, refusing to return to their jobs, were joined by building trades workers. At Metz 25,000 remained out in the Moselle industrial area.

Bookies at Paris race tracks continued idle and Riviera hotel keepers kept their buildings locked against strikers.

Reynolds Packard, United Press staff correspondent now visiting New York from Paris, expressed opinion that French workers are forcing Premier Leon Blum to more conservative policies. Ed L. Keen, United Press vice president with headquarters in Paris, cabled that French workers are striking to assure fulfillment of the popular front government's campaign promises.

Twenty petit jurors are receiving a lot of legal mail these days. Last Saturday they were sent cards to report Wednesday at 9 a. m. for the trial of Kenneth Kneese on a robbery charge.

Kneese changed his plea Monday and was sentenced to 10 to 25 years in the Ohio penitentiary.

Cards were then sent to the jurors not to report Wednesday but to be in court next Monday for a civil case. The civil case was postponed indefinitely Tuesday and more cards were sent out for the jurors not to appear until they were again notified.

The case postponed was that of Nellie Stuckey, Washington township, against C. A. Leist, as executor of the estate of Ella Greenlee, and others. The suit asked $5,492.42 on an account. E. A. Brown, attorney in the case, reported an important witness would be unable to appear.

COUNTY REMOVES FOUR FROM PENSIONER LIST

Four Circleville residents, who have secured work on WPA, were dropped from the blind pension roll Monday by the county commissioners. They will be restored to the pension list when WPA ceases.

In conformity with the Ohio Blind law, twelve persons over 65 years of age, will receive no blind pensions after July 1. Under new regulations the age limit is 18 to 65 years. Those over 65 must apply for old-age pensions.

SEARCHERS FIND HUBERT WILKINS SAFE IN NORWAY

OSLO, Norway, June 30.—(UP)—The Norwegian-American steamer Stavangerjord established contact today with Sir Hubert Wilkins, explorer, aboard the expedition ship Wyatt Earp.

Wilkins, informed that his wife was so anxious regarding the expedition that she appealed to President Roosevelt for cooperation in locating it, explained the Wyatt Earp had been delayed by unfavorable weather.

"But all is well aboard," Wilkins informed the master of the Stavangerjord. "We expect to reach Norway in mid-July."

The Wyatt Earp was about 900 miles due east of Newfoundland.

FIREWORKS SALE DECREE BALKED BY STATE'S LAW

Circleville's "antiquated" ordinance prohibiting the sale of fireworks in the city will not be enforced.

This was certain Tuesday morning following a statement from Mayor W. J. Graham. Several weeks ago the old ordinance was dusted off and read to merchants who planned to sell fireworks. Since that time the mayor has learned the ordinance conflicts with state regulations to such an extent it would be practically impossible to enforce it.

State laws permit the sale of fireworks during a certain period and regulate the size and quantity of powder used in the articles.

Many merchants had stocks of fireworks on display Tuesday. The mayor added the ordinance prohibiting the explosion of fireworks in the city would be carried out to the fullest extent and issued orders to the police department to bring in all offenders.

Leave of Absence for Campaign Expected; 'Never Can Tell,' He Says

WASHINGTON, June 30.—(UP)—Reports that James A. Farley soon will be granted a leave of absence as postmaster general were revived today in official quarters.

Farley indicated several months ago that he contemplated devoting all of his efforts to the chairmanship of the Democratic National committee, a post to which he was re-elected in Philadelphia last week.

He is reliably reported to have asked President Roosevelt for

"Why I Switched to Dodge"

by GEORGE DEWITT SHEETS, Cranford, N. J.

I traded in my small car to get a big Dodge "Beauty Winner." It was one of the best moves I ever made.

Why? Because, in the long run, I figure this big Dodge is actually going to cost me less than the small car I had.

For example, I'm getting 21 miles per gallon of gasoline—and I haven't added any oil between changes. And Dodge is so easy to buy! One can get a Dodge for not much more than $25 per month! It's easy to see why more people buy Dodge cars than any other make, with the exception of the three lowest-priced cars!

Questioned at Philadelphia during the Democratic National convention regarding the reports, Farley declined to either confirm or deny them. Such reports, he said, have been current for two years.

From other sources, however, it was learned the two-job cabinet member plans to relinquish his postmaster generalship. W. W. Howes, now first assistant postmaster general, will be named acting postmaster, it was said.

But, Farley pressed for a direct answer as to whether his resignation was imminent, evaded:

FAYETTE STORES PLAN FRIDAY CELEBRATION

WASHINGTON C. H., June 30.—For the benefit of Friday night shoppers, Washington C. H. merchants are sponsoring a half-hour fireworks display at 10 p. m. at Wilson field. The Business and Civic Association committees are in charge of arrangements.

A contract has been signed with the Cincinnati Fireworks Display Co. to present the display. The stories will observe their usual Saturday night hours, Friday, and will be closed on July Fourth. Immediately after shopping hours aerial salutes will announce the opening of the display.

THEATRES

AT THE CLIFTONA

Squadron without fear... they'll try anything once... or twice... if they live! Motors whining... propellers screaming... five miles up... five-miles-a-minute down... straight for the ground—and glory!

Thus do the test pilots, unsung heroes of aviation, live and die. Fittingly, Columbia Picture has produced a picture dedicated to these brave men: it is called "Devil's Squadron," and it opens today at the Cliftona theatre with Richard Dix in the starring role.

Others in the picture are Karen Morley, Lloyd Nolan, Shirley Ross, Billy Burrud, Gene Morgan and Thurston Hall.

Paul Muni, who has the stellar role in the Cosmopolitan production, "The Story of Louis Pasteur," which comes to the Grand Theatre as a First National release, does not think an actor should be given special credit for rendering a convincing performance.

"Every portrayal should be convincing. That's one of the prime factors in the job of acting," he says. "It's no more flattering than to tell a river pilot he knows the stream well, or to congratulate a postman for his knowledge of the city streets."

To the People of Circleville and Pickaway County

It has come to our attention on several occasions that some of the people of this community have had the opinion that our organization operating here was only established for a temporary period.

We have been located in Newark for the past thirteen years and in our humble opinion feel that we have been successful, and we believe that we can duplicate this business record in Circleville. During this time we have handled the complete line of the Frigidaire Corporation (the product of General Motors) both as authorized sales and service dealers.

We had been looking for a community in which to establish another store, and of the many places that we investigated, we were so greatly impressed with the people and business establishments that we immediately came to the conclusion this was the place we wanted to locate.

We also want to take this opportunity of thanking the many friends we have made in the limited time we have been located here, and wish to assure you that we are here to serve you for any of your refrigerator needs, whether it be sales or service.

Here Are the Rules Governing the First Baby of the Month Contest

Each month the Circleville merchants listed on this page unite to form a welcome committee to the first baby born each month in the city.

They will present the first born and its parents with a worthwhile shower of gifts for earning the distinction of the "Baby of the Month."

A careful check will be made with local physicians to establish the winner and the winner's name will be duly announced in this paper.

To qualify, the baby's parents must be residents of Circleville.

Parents of the first baby must call at this newspaper and receive a certificate which will entitle them to gifts and prizes of the various merchants.

A RETAILERS' ASSOCIATION
THE Chamber of Commerce will make an effort this evening to form a Retailer Merchants' association for the benefit of Circleville and its trading area. A meeting is planned at the Pickaway Country Club at 6:30 o'clock. Every merchant is welcome to attend.
A retailers' association could be of great benefit to the entire community. Many questions, now difficult for the merchants to solve as individuals, could be disposed of with great ease through the association.
It is hoped that Circleville merchants will look far enough ahead, help organize the association by attending tonight's meeting, and, eventually reap the harvests to be provided through the organization.

PRODUCTION—EMPLOYMENT
PRODUCTION increase running ahead of employment increase is to be expected at some stages in a reviving market. That has been the situation in the last few months. It brought from certain political sources slacker intimations against business, as though business was purposely holding back. President Green of the American Federation of Labor has felt moved, too, to say some things about the little reliance to be placed on private industry, and these could not fail to disturb the worker.

Last employment statistics are now out. They show that production increase and employment increase, taking a long-range view, are running fairly parallel. The former is now 83 per cent of the 1929 volume and the latter at 81 per cent. In the last twelve months the increases have been 18 and 15 per cent, respectively. The gains are significant, for it was in May of last year that the NRA went out of existence to the accompaniment of doleful forecasts from exponents of government over all that unemployment increases and wage cuts would become the rule. As a matter of fact the Department of Labor figures show 650,000 more at work with payrolls up $36,000,000 weekly. More than that, employment rose over the month before, which Secretary Perkins declared "most unusual" because, according to the normal trend, it should have been less.

WHY, INDEED?
THE Rev. A. A. Macleod, field secretary of the Sons of Temperance, has written to the Nova Scotia Government at this late date to learn why coffee sent down to Dr. D. E. Robertson and Alfred Scadding, entombed in a Moose River gold mine for ten days, a part of this time with the body of a dead companion, was "fortified" with brandy.
This is a question which provides a basis for unrestrained speculation, all of it along interesting lines. It may be that the workers above were interested in leading the imprisoned men astray and transforming them into slaves of drink. There is the possibility also that they had in mind the

Up to the tune of snapping firecrackers, recalling the days of yesteryear when as a boy was known as "the noisiest brat on the West Side." After the recent pronouncements on a noiseless Fourth did wonder just how a boy would celebrate the great Independence Day, but now I know. What means official dictates in the mind of youth when fireworks are on sale at a half dozen places in the downtown district and matches are to be had for a raid on the kitchen? Firecrackers are neither safe nor sane, but they are noisy and to a boy that means just about everything that is to be desired.

Daily Washington Merry-Go-Round

ANNA BARS WASHINGTON LIFE
WASHINGTON—Anna Roosevelt Boettiger is the apple of her father's eye, and she deserves to be. Vivacious, frank, straight-from-the-shoulder, she has the charm of both parents, her mother's energy and a surprising amount of common sense.

The other Roosevelt children have a long way to go before they wear off the rough edges, but Anna makes up for a lot of their short-comings.

Probably the best criterion by which to appraise any woman, whether she lives in a tenement or sits in the seats of the mighty, is her children. Raising children in the White House may lack the physical disadvantages of a tenement, but in some respects it is harder.

Anna's chief problem during the two years — Sistie and Buzzie lived there was to keep them from thinking they occupied a position more favored than others. With newspapers constantly publishing their pictures, with every adult turning to stare at them on the street, with other children whispering about them in school, this was no easy job.

DALL DIVORCE

The two years which Anna Dall (her name at that time) spent in the White House were not particularly happy ones, although on the surface they seemed to be.

She was, naturally, the most sought-after young woman in Washington, and there were few functions of any importance to which she was not invited. She attended many, always made friends, remembered names, was never shy. Hauteur was not in her make-up. She had no airs or affectations.

However, there was a strain underneath it all, because she was not living with her husband and yet did not have a divorce.

At the age of 19, Anna had married Curtis B. Dall, a very polite and pleasant young man, who made a good appearance and worked reasonably hard. It was one of those adolescent infatuations that did not take. Dall was sedentary, Anna was on the qui vive every moment.

Even before her father was elected, a divorce obviously was in the offing. Anna took the campaign trip with her father, but without Dall. And after the Roosevelts entered the White House, Dall came down for only an occasional weekend visit. It was easy to see that Anna was chiefly waiting for the publicity following her brother Elliott's divorce to wane before going out to Reno.

This she finally did, before her father wanted her to, but with the complete approval of her mother, who always has contended that the children must "make their own lives."

development of a little night club atmosphere down in the shaft, where the two survivors of the tragedy were living on intimate terms with death. It may be, too, that the rescue workers who sent the coffee and brandy down did so in the belief that the drink might stimulate and sustain the flickering spark of life.

These are, of course, only a few of the possible answers to the questions of why coffee, reinforced with brandy, was sent to the men entombed for ten days in the bottom of a mine. The answer of the Nova Scotia Government will be awaited with interest.

CHAPTER 32
JOAN FORGOT to think of herself. Long after the last cadence of Julian's voice was silent, his last simple statement was there between them with its dramatic import of his quiet acceptance of a thing that must have been a tragedy.
"I fell in love too late!" he had said.
Joan wanted to comfort him, to voice the sweet sorrow his words had stirred within her. Her own loss of love, her belief that she would never again experience an emotion so tender receded before the wave of sympathy she felt toward him. She was sorry in her heart for the woman who could not have, or did not want Julian's love. He should have had everything! His cup should have been brimming over.
"I'm sorry," she said, touching his hand and his heart.
"It's all right," he said, and then they talked of other things.
What manner of woman could she have been? Perhaps she was already married. This woman that Julian loved. Perhaps even now she grieved for what could not be. Whoever she was and wherever she might be, Joan found herself thinking of her in the days that followed. And in her own heart she could understand why Julian did not want her to marry and leave him because she suffered a feeling of loss at the thought that Julian might have married the woman he loved and so the intimate, delicate relationship between them — for all that it was employer and employee however friendly — might not be completely full.
Had that relationship been of a different sort, had Joan not lived beneath the same roof with Julian and if their work had been of a nature less dramatic, their destinies might have been clarified to both of them and each might have spared the other pain. But that was not to be.
Thinking of Donald, Joan was sometimes to wish that she could run away, that he had never asked her to marry him, that he had not tempted her with an escape from a lonely life. For Donald did tempt her; he wooed her in the little ways that make strong bonds of silken threads. He sent her white lilacs that made her think of earlier springs when she had discovered the quickening of life in her first love for Win. Because it was her first love, she clung to the belief that it was the greatest, not knowing that a woman's heart is often capable of many deeper loves.
He sent her a biography she had spoken of once and forgotten. He took her to indoor polo matches and outdoor art exhibits. He took her to the opera and to marionette shows. He bought her an absurd little toy kitten and pointed out the pear-shaped diamond he said he wanted to buy for her the minute that she would permit him to do so.
And all the while that he was doing the little things that made her love him, she was facing the increasing knowledge that she was not in love with him, that she wanted to keep this forever as a friendship and not as a marriage. Yet she didn't dare tell him that. She was afraid to give up something that made her happy.
Suppose that Julian were to go away, to want to get another secretary? All manner of vague suggestions suggested themselves to her. She couldn't go back to teaching school and ever be happy again. As for another secretarial job, where else could she ever be happy?
She needed Donald and Donald needed her, else why should he ask her to marry him?
"Why do you want to marry me?" she asked him.
"Maybe, I'm in love with you," he answered. "But of course you know I don't believe very much in that sort of thing. If being proud to be with you, being contented in your company, if trying to think of things to do to make you happy, is being in love, then I guess I am."

Joan went out very quietly.

If that were all there was to it, Joan thought perhaps she was in love with—the name that came into her mind was not Donald's.
"Joan, you aren't the type of girl who would keep a man dangling. Why can't you tell me that you'll marry me? You haven't said 'yes' and you haven't said 'no', not that I shall take the latter. I warn you, I shall break down your resistance."
"Donald, there isn't any point in my saying 'yes' now. You are not yet free. I wish, if there were any chance of it, that you and Linda might work it out together and be happy. She loved you one time and I don't believe that love ever dies. Isn't there any chance of that?"
"Not the slightest. You're changing the subject, young woman, but if you don't want to talk about it, shall we discuss the Russian ballet or must I listen to the latest news about your job? Detestable thing!"
"It's not at all detestable, Mr. Newberry. It's grand! It's getting very exciting because Jul—Mr. Sloane is starting a great play. How wonderful it must be to have some one thing you want terribly to do and then to be doing it!"
"Marrying you is the one thing I want to do."
Joan smiled at him and went on. "That's what Mr. Sloane wants to do. Oh, I didn't mean marrying me. I meant..."
"Why doesn't he?"
"Doesn't want to marry me?" Joan caught her breath. "Good heavens, Donald, why should he? I'm not his kind at all."
"I don't know why he hasn't proposed long ago. Lucky dog, to have you at his beck and call, seeing you every day, having you talk about him as though he were something or someone who lives on a different plane from mere mortals. Does he know how you feel about him?"
"That I'm a hero-worshiper?" she inquired tartly. "No. Speaking of mere mortals, the title of his new play is 'Mortal on Olympus'. He's writing it and going to cast and produce it himself. Think how marvelous that will be!"

"Extraordinary!" he said and dismissed the subject.
So much for Donald. Joan was relieved that the situation did not call for an immediate answer or action. She tucked the whole thing away in the back of her mind and applied herself to her job. There would be time enough to meet that when the play was finished and in the theater. Donald would dance attendance on her, for that she was now certain. Her very indifference to the outcome was the strongest tie with which she could bind him.
Sometimes she wondered if she would have lost Win had he not been so sure of her. He always knew that she was waiting for him and he had thought it unimportant. Joan had learned another valuable lesson that did her no good. The taste was the taste of ashes and knowledge was without power.
Fortunately Joan had little time to ponder on her problems and when she laid her head on her pillow at night, it was to lose herself in dreamless slumber. For Julian had finished his play and it was going into production.
It was not yet completely cast but the sets were in the process of design and all the pageantry that was required was now a fantastic industry. Julian was all over New York and his library was a madhouse.
Joan came into it to find Sheila in silver foxes and tears one late afternoon.
"Where is Julian?" she demanded hysterically.
"I'll call him," Joan said and did. "My dear!" Julian gathered Sheila into his arms and petted her as though she were a child. He took her hat off and laid her furs aside.
Joan went out very quietly.
Why hadn't she known! She had once believed that Sheila True was the woman that Julian loved. Now Sheila was going to marry Pierre Durand. She was the woman that Julian had "fallen in love with too late".

Poems That Live

THE SEA GYPSY
I am fevered with the sunset,
I am fretful with the bay,
For the wander-thirst is on me
And my soul is in Cathay.

There's a schooner in the offing,
With her topsails shot with fire,
And my heart has gone aboard
For the Islands of Desire.

I must forth again tomorrow!
With the sunset I must be
Hull down on the trail of rapture
In the wonder of the Sea.

Daughters of 1812 Meet At Mt. Sterling Park

Number of Circleville Members Take Part in Gathering

The Anderson-Neff Park at Mount Sterling was selected for the meeting of the Jonathan Alder Chapter of the Daughters of 1812 when they met Monday for an all-day gathering.

Members from Circleville, London and Mt. Sterling attended.

Miss Louise Neff, Mrs. Oscar Finley and Mrs. Clark Beale of Mt. Sterling were hostesses. An old-fashioned picnic dinner with plenty of food was served at the noon hour.

The afternoon's program consisted of a very interesting paper on "School Lands of Ohio" by Mrs. Edgar Baker of Mt. Sterling.

Attending were Mrs. Baker, Mrs. Beale, Mrs. Finley, Miss Neff, Mrs. Frank Hott, Mrs. Wilson McCafferty, and Mrs. Stella Miller of Mt. Sterling; Mrs. Jessie Chance, Mrs. John Copeland, Mrs. John Ellsworth, Mrs. Mack Taylor, Mrs. Cannon Clark, and Mrs. James Martin, London; Mrs. John Boggs, Miss Charlotte Caldwell, Mrs. Orion King, Mrs. G. I. Nickerson, Mrs. G. L. Schiear, Mrs. Ella Hornbeck, Mrs. W. L. Mack, and Mrs. Eleanor Bissell of Circleville.

Mrs. Nickerson Entertains

Contract bridge was enjoyed at the home of Mrs. Glenn I. Nickerson, S. Court street, when she entertained members of her club Monday evening.

Mrs. Hulda Cheek of Oklahoma City, who is the guest of her sister, Mrs. George Littleton, was the out of town guest.

Mrs. George Foreman won the prize for top score. Light refreshments were served at the close of play.

Mrs. Mader Hostess

Mrs. Mac Mader, E. Main street, charmingly entertained members of her bridge club and a few guests Monday evening at her home.

Mrs. Maxine Dowler, Mrs. Ralph Wallace, Mrs. Carl Goeller, Mrs. Andrew Thomas, Mrs. Ben Gordon, Mrs. Neil K. Barton and Miss Myrtle Rodgers of Jackson Tenn. were invited as additional guests.

The game of contract was enjoyed, players progressing at three tables. Prizes were awarded to Miss Helen Steele and Miss Mary Ellen Phillips, club members. Miss Rodgers was winner of the guest prize.

At the close of play a delicious salad course was served by the hostess.

Miss Steele will entertain the club in two weeks at her home, S. Scioto street.

Birthday Picnic

A delightful celebration was held Monday afternoon at Logan Elm Park honoring the eighth birthday anniversary of Master Bill Poor, Jr., of Houston, Texas.

His aunts, Mrs. Chester Valentine, Salt Creek township, and Mrs. M. E. Noggle, W. Union street, planned the happy occasion. Games and contests were enjoyed during the play hours and at 5:30 o'clock a bounteous picnic supper was served to the following guests:

John and Tommy Eveland, Jean Greene, Margery Dresbach, Dolores McKenzie, Ann Curtin, Sandy and Stevie Jones, Elizabeth and John Stevenson, Katherine Metzger of Williamsport, Betty Smith and Beverly Poor of Houston, Texas.

Mrs. Rodgers Hostess

A pleasant evening was spent at the home of Mrs. A. H. Rodgers, Monday, when she entertained members of her bridge club.

BIRTHDAY CAKE

One-half cup shortening
One cup sugar
Two cups flour
Two teaspoons baking powder

Ask for GREAT SEAL - the Pure VANILLA Richer, Better Flavor

Three egg whites
Two-thirds cup milk
One teaspoon flavoring
One-half teaspoon salt

Blend shortening and sugar together until creamy. Sift dry ingredients three times and add alternately with milk, beat until mixture is smooth. Add flavoring, fold in egg whites and pour into greased ring mold and bake in 350 degrees oven about 35 minutes.

Remove from the mold, cool and place cake on a large cake plate and ice with white icing. Arrange a small bowl of flowers in center of the ring. Place birthday candles on colored gum drops around the outer rim of the plate.

This is a pretty center piece for the dinner table.

MARSHALL WINS FROM ALI BABA IN TITLE BOUT

Less Than 40 Minutes Required to End Reign of Turkish Heavy

COLUMBUS, June 30.—(UP)—For the first time since Frank Gotch relinquished his crown in 1913, the heavyweight wrestling world today claimed to have an undisputed champion.

Everett Marshall, husky blond from La Junta, Colo., cleared the muddled situation here last night when he pinned Ali Baba, the bewhiskered Kurd, in 39 minutes and 20 seconds. Marshall won with a slam and top body hold.

Marshall who has been a persistent challenger for the title for the last several years had all the best of the bout that attracted a crowd of 9,000 persons.

Marshall was the aggressor throughout and at the 35 minute mark had built up a considerable advantage. Shortly thereafter he threw Ali Baba from the ring and then fell on top of him.

The tumble apparently dazed the Turk and he showed little resistance to Marshall when they climbed back. The Coloradoan slammed Ali Baba to the mat and then pinned him.

The defeat ended a very brief reign for the Turk. He gained his claim to the championship at Detroit April 24 when he threw Dick Shikat of Germany.

About This And That In Many Sports

Marshall Is Victor

Everett Marshall won—The crowd was some over 8,000 while estimates said it would be 18,000—Many Circleville persons were there, and all had a good time because Marshall is their favorite—The big fellow, blonde and good-looking for a grappler, lives in Columbus and should make a popular champion—There are probably a dozen in the country who could blast him to the canvass, but he'll make a sock full of money out of it if he keeps it for six months—More power to him ***

Reds Get Attention

The Cincinnati Reds are grasping the attention of thousands of fans in the tri-state district—The Redlegs are a game back of the first division with the Giants in fourth place—If Charlie Dressen's boys can get past that fourth notch not telling where they will climb—Paul Derringer bumped off the Chicago Cubs Monday night with more than 33,000 in the stands—Ken O'Dea, former Red Bird, who has been slugging the ball for the Cubs, lost the game for his team—He dropped Derringer's high foul; had he caught it the game would have been over—Derringer then singled to drive in two runs—The score was 4-3

Racing at Lancaster

Thoroughbred racing will be resumed at Lancaster fairgrounds July 4 with Harry Shepard's organization running the show—The big performance will continue through July 18 with many fast horses to be entered—South-central Ohio has long been famous for its fine horses until the last dozen years—At Lancaster in the 60s the stable of John Reber was internationally famous—At Chillicothe the establishment of Harness and McConnell gave the turf some fine runners—In Circleville Cary Short was known for miles around—30,000 saw the opening card at Lancaster last summer ***

INDIANS AND CARDINALS TO MEET IN EXHIBITION

CLEVELAND, June 30.—(UP)—The Cleveland Indians and the St. Louis Cardinals will play an exhibition game here next Monday, it was announced today. The Indians conclude a series Sunday at Chicago and will return home for the exhibition.

Red Sox, Yankees Start "Crucial" Early Series

Boston Seven and Half Games Behind New York After Disastrous Journey West; McCarthy Men Showing Power, Although Pitchers Show Poor Form

NEW YORK, June 30.—(UP)—Tom Yawkey's million dollar Boston Red Sox limped into town today to fight their way into the pennant picture with the New York Yankees, just returned from a western excursion where their mighty bombing still echoes in American league ball parks.

The "gold stockings" attempt to narrow the gap of seven and a half games which separates them from the leading Bronx blasters in a five tilt series which begins with a double-header this afternoon.

The Yawkeymen's trip through the west was as disastrous as the Yankees' was successful. Joe Cronin and his boys won only four games while losing nine. Manager Joe McCarthy brought his Yankees home with nine victories in 14 contests.

The Yankees feel mighty good about their margin of leadership at this stage of the Fourth of July season, at which time the league leader is reputed to have the best chance of copping the confalon. But McCarthy nor his club are boasting about their pennant chances yet. Because in three out of the last four years when they have led the pack on Independence day, they have been upset before September.

The only sad part of the Yankees' western invasion was the ineffectiveness of their hurlers, only four of whom went the distance. Red Ruffing accomplished it twice and Monte Pearson and Lefty Gomez once each. And the Yankees pitching woes date even farther back. In their last 24 games, 15 starting hurlers have been blasted from the mound or had to be relieved because of wildness.

Lou Gehrig, the baby of the 1927 murderers row, leads today's Bronx bombers. He hit for the circuit six times on the Yankees' triumphant tour, bringing his season total to 18. He hit at a clip of .534 and rose to the batting lead of the American league. New York's sensational rookie, DiMaggio, hit .368 and belted out five home runs.

Maxie Baer's manager, Andri Hoffman, was due to confer with Texas Centennial exposition commissioners here today on the possibility of matching the former heavyweight champion against James J. Braddock, present titleholder.

Hoffman said he had not received an answer to a challenge he sent Braddock.

"Max is ready to fight anybody now," Hoffman said last night. "He's serious for the first time in his life and he's in great shape."

Maxie's present fighting weight is 222.

YESTERDAY'S (LAST NIGHT'S) HERO: Paul Derringer, who batted in two runs with a single that proved to be the winning margin over the Chicago Cubs.

Veterans are doing their Christmas shopping while there is a Santa Claus.

Sanghile waded right in at the opening bell at Dyckman oval last night and dropped Marino for a count of seven before the bout was a minute old. With a terrific barrage of left hooks and jabs to the face, Marino came back strong to win the second, third and fourth, splitting a cut over the Spaniard's eye, and bringing blood gushing from his nose.

But Sanghile rallied in the fifth and gave Marino a terrific lacing up until the 13th, when the Pittsburgher sent him back on his heels with a short right. In the 14th a short left hook to the stomach, and two crashing rights to the head, put Sanghile down on his hands and knees for the count of 10.

Bowes to Change Broadcast Night in September

MAJOR TO MOVE TO NEW AIRWAY, TOO, IS REPORT

What Is Best Time to Reach Audiences? Speakers Ask

Major Edward Bowes, the maestro of the amateurs not only will change sponsors in September but networks and broadcast days, too. The gentle-voiced major-domo of the simon-pure air shows will present his amateur hours each week from 9 to 10 p. m. eastern standard time, on Thursdays. The major will also be heard over the Columbia chain. Heretofore Bowes has always broadcast over NBC and usually on Sundays.

WHAT TIME BEST?
ONE OF the major problems facing those astute gentlemen

guiding this year the national campaigns of their political parties has nothing to do with their opponents or issues, national or international.

The problem is this: when is the best time for candidates and speakers for candidates to be on the air with their vote-winning — so they hope — messages? The evening hours, of course, naturally reach more listeners than any other period but on a good many nights the choice hours have been set aside for programs which have great popularity among the radio public.

THIS LISTENER has heard a considerable group of radio fans expressing themselves on the matter of political speeches supplanting their favorite programs. The two major political conventions caused the elimination of some highly-favored programs and, from comment this column has heard, a good portion of the public resented this.

Resentment is the one thing campaign managers certainly do not wish to incur. But what can they do?

How the John Hamiltons and Jim Farleys of today must long for the good old days when there were no such problems to solve and a campaign consisted chiefly of red fire and brass band parades and a glamorous tour for candidates around the country.

BACK-SEAT DRIVER?

What should a husband do when his wife insists on driving from the back-seat?

How can a woman make her husband shave on Sunday?

Any husbands and wives of the radio audience who have been troubled by these momentous problems can discover the answers by listening to "Husbands and Wives," the new human interest program, conducted by Sedley Brown, and Allie Lowe Miles, which makes its network debut on Sunday, July 5.

Successful for the last year on local New York Station WOR, "Husbands and Wives" comes to the network every Sunday at 6:30 p. m. (EST).

Members of the radio audience are actually invited to come to the microphone and give their views on the topics of the evening and those invited are selected on the basis of letters written to the conductors of the program. That is, listeners who write in the most interesting solutions to domestic problems which they have themselves solved, or think they have, will be asked to tell the nation-at-large about it.

Brown and Mrs. Miles don't guarantee that husbands troubled with back-seat driving wives will get a perfect solution by listening to the first broadcast, for instance. But the Milquetoasts of the steering wheel will at least learn what some kindred soul did in the same situation. The same applies to the wives who can't make their husbands shave on Sunday.

Another question to be discussed at the July 5 "meeting," as the broadcasts are called, is: Should a husband take his wife with him on vacations? The conductors say that questions like that bring fighting answers.

COUNTY TO LOSE TAX ON RESETTLEMENT LAND

CONGRESS FAILS TO APPROVE BILL FOR COLLECTION

All Acreage Included in Scioto Project in Three Counties to Be Included

Pickaway county will lose tax money from all land purchased for the Scioto Homesteads Resettlement project as a result of congress' failure to enact legislation for collection of taxes on such projects.

Several hundred acres, all in Wayne, Deercreek and Perry townships, have been purchased by the government for families forced to leave hill country homes because of the reforestation program.

Under a ruling of the comptroller general, the project must remain tax exempt as long as title rests with the federal government and, unless the resettlement administration is able to turn it over to a community organization which agrees to take care of the tax burden, state and local governments will be unable to collect.

Although congress has passed legislation permitting the payment of taxes on public works administration low-rent housing projects, this act will have no effect on Pickaway, Ross and Hocking counties and other resettlement communities. Bills authorizing the collection of taxes on resettlement properties were introduced in both houses of congress last session, but in spite of favorable reports by committees and by resettlement, they failed to pass.

With Scioto homesteads only in the preliminary stages, land optioning completed, and construction about to start, the counties will have to wait at least a year before they can possibly tax the property. On the completion of construction, settlers in the project would have to agree to take over the tax burden along with management of the community.

Until construction is completed and such an agreement reached, no taxes can be collected, even though private individuals are occupying the houses, since resettlement purchase plans do not permit tenants to acquire clear title to their property until the end of 40 years.

WASHINGTON, June 30.—(UP)—The resettlement administration announced today that its regional office at Champaign, Ill., will be moved sometime before Aug. 1 to Indianapolis, Ind.

The office, in charge of R. C. Smith, field director, employs about 150 workers, and has charge of five states—Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Iowa and Missouri.

Accompanied by typical Zioncheck pyrotechnics, Capitol police accompanied him, eager to get him out of the capital and even the proximity of the District of Columbia, anxious lest Washington police or Maryland police delay his exit, one by serving a warrant charging assault, the other by serving one charging him with being a fugitive from the sanitarium. Camera flashbulbs exploded, throwing an eerie light over the congressman's overwrought face. Movie cameras ground; reports bombarded him with questions.

I'll Be Back

Zioncheck's last word to the capital was one of defiance. Strolling through the station gates, smoking a long cigar, he turned suddenly and shouted: "I'll be back, all right."

The conductor called all aboard, and Zioncheck hopped nimbly onto his pullman.

His departure ended a particularly frenzied 12 hours for Capitol police, who had been forced to protect him while he remained barricaded in his official suite in the house office building, and a frenzied six months for the capital district at large.

Early New Year's day a wild man took over an apartment house lobby, amused himself by playing with the telephone switchboard, and managed to wake up all the tenants. The congressman was Marion Zioncheck, who until then had a reputation as a quiet, efficient congressman.

The Zioncheck escapades, each one more out of keeping with his previous behavior than the preceding one, followed in rapid succession. He was arrested in Washington, in Virginia, in North Carolina for speeding. A lady admirer telephoned home, he liked her voice, and straightaway married her. They honeymooned in Puerto Rico and the Virgin islands, where he was speedily involved in difficulties for speeding and fighting with the natives.

Invented Zipper

Returning to Washington, they stopped in New York for a few wild days, during the course of which Zioncheck and his wife, at his urging waded in the pool at Rockefeller center and he invented the potent cocktail—the Zioncheck zipper.

Back in Washington, the erstwhile quiet and studious congressman was involved in difficulties with his landlady. While news cameramen snapped pictures, he knocked the landlady unconscious and dragged her out of his apartment into the corridor. Then Mrs. Zioncheck left him and he ran about Washington looking for her, stopping at the White House to leave President Roosevelt a gift of empty beer bottles.

GOVERNMENT TO SPEED AID TO DROUGHT-STRICKEN AREA

mapped out but held up as an emergency step to be put in operation only if the drought continues for an extended period.

Such a program, if undertaken, would resemble the cattle program of 1934, when the federal government bought thousands of head of cattle, transferred them to areas where feed was more plentiful, and distributed much of the beef as relief rations.

The problem was discussed yesterday in the office of Secretary of Agriculture Wallace. Acting Budget Director Daniel W. Bell, R. A. Administrator Rexford Guy Tugwell, assistant WPA Administrator Aubrey Williams, and Assistant AAA Administrator Jesse Tappe, participated.

WPA Administrator Harry L. Hopkins will preside today at a meeting in St. Paul, to which state and federal relief officials have been invited. Hopkins said he hoped for a complete survey on problems facing all nearby states, and said he would decide on whether to allot additional funds after the conference.

Reports to the agriculture department and the weather bureau indicated that while a major portion of the spring wheat crop already has been burned out, other crops can be saved if it rains in July.

Officials expressed concern over reports that grasshoppers had attacked large areas in Iowa, Missouri, and Indiana, and were expected to hit Kansas, Nebraska and Wisconsin.

Chinch bugs, always feared by farmers, were beginning to appear in large numbers in central Illinois.

KEATON GOES TO JAIL; WIFE-BEATING CHARGED

Paris Keaton, 54, Half avenue, was bound to the grand jury under $1,000 bond Monday by Mayor W. J. Graham on a charge of assault and battery filed by Patrolman Alva Shasteen. He denied the charge of beating his wife, Thelma, in a quarrel Sunday night. Keaton was unable to furnish bond and was transferred to the county jail.

SLIGHTLY MORE THAN ONE INCH FALLS IN MONTH

The thresher was blown around; limbs were broken off big trees, shutters were torn off houses. The only property loss reported in the city was at the home of Miss Elizabeth Fismar, S. Scioto street, where a tree limb damaged the roof.

Monday's temperature climbed as high as 93 degrees before declining. Sixty-six was the lowest mark during the night.

While June, 1936 saw only three days in Circleville, a year ago the same month brought 17 in which rain was recorded. Dr. H. R. Clarke, weatherman, delved further into his records Tuesday morning to find that the rainiest June in recent years was in 1934 when 6.39 inches were listed. There were 14 rainy days in that month.

BY UNITED PRESS

Parched farmlands in northern and central Ohio were drenched during the night by a rainstorm which agricultural experts estimated benefited the state by several million dollars.

Ohio crops—particularly corn, wheat, oats, hay and fruits—had reached the point where lack of moisture each day was exacting a heavy toll and was heading the state toward an almost complete crop failure. Plant life had been baking and withering in the fields all this month.

The Ohio farm bureau estimated that last night's rain was worth more than $3,000,000 to farmers.

The state weather bureau in Columbus reported the average rain fall over Ohio at .33 inches. In some places near Lake Erie the precipitation was recorded at 1.11 inches, and was the first measurable amount of rain in about three weeks.

Pastures were expected to be revived. Grassy field had been drying up until livestock feeding had become a serious problem.

Wind, lighting and hail accompanied the summer showers in some places. At McComb, Hancock county, a grain elevator was struck by lightning and burned to the ground, with $15,000 loss.

COUNCIL, POWER MEN TO CONFER ON RATE OFFER

Regular Session of City Dads is Wednesday; Confab to Be Next Week

SECOND READING PLANNED

Officials Comparing Prices Paid in Other Central Ohio Communities

The Southern Ohio Electric Co.'s rate ordinance, establishing a new schedule for commercial and residential lighting, will probably be given its second reading before council Wednesday evening, then be referred back to the committee of council for recommendation.

Frank Marion, chairman of the committee, said Tuesday a special meeting will probably be called next week for light company officials and councilmen to hold a "talk fest" concerning the new rates.

Although councilmen have held no known discussions on the rates it is open all favor a short term contract instead of a 10-year contract as offered by the company.

It is known also councilmen are making an extensive check of light rates in other Ohio cities comparable in size to Circleville. A number of councilmen feel the rates in both schedules are still "too high."

Hunt His Slayer

STATE TROOPERS and posemen hunted the slayer of Robert Kenyon, 10-year-old Detroit boy whose horribly mutilated body was found in a shallow river on his uncle's 2,500-acre farm west of Tawas City, Mich. Robert had been missing for six days when his body was found. Police were at a loss to establish a motive for the crime.

Engineer Visits Fayette County City on Monday

WASHINGTON, C. H., June 30.—A survey to place the valuation of the plant of the Ohio Water Service Co., with a view to its purchase by the city, was started Monday by Donald H. Maxwell, engineer for Alvord, Burdick and Howson of Chicago, employed by the Stifel, Nicolaus & Co., Chicago.

The purchase would be arranged under a plan to issue mortgage loan bonds.

Maxwell spent Monday in this city, and returned to Chicago. A report on the valuation is expected within the next month or two, after which the city will determine the question of the purchase.

Under the plan the city would issue mortgage bonds to be retired by funds derived from water rentals, so that over a period of years the plant would be paid for and owned by the city.

HAILE SELASSIE READY TO TALK AGAINST ITALY

GENEVA, June 30.—(UP)—Emperor Haile Selassie, a tired, discouraged and disillusioned little brown man, took his seat at the League of Nations assembly today and waited his chance to denounce the world for failing to keep its promise to save his kingdom.

Undeterred by Italian threats of grave consequences, the negus insisted, against the embarrassed objections of such powers as France and Great Britain, on his right to speak.

The 52 nations which joined hands last autumn in the world's first attempt to halt war by applying sanctions sat with the negus to recognize their failure to save Ethiopia from Italy.

LEHMAN TO ASK HIS THIRD TERM IN STATE HOUSE

Pressure of President and Others Causes Governor to Change Mind

ALBANY, June 30.—(UP)—Governor Herbert H. Lehman, yielding to pressure from President Roosevelt, today announced his candidacy for re-election to a third term.

Lehman summoned newspapermen to his offices shortly before noon and announced he could "no longer resist the pleas of national and state Democratic leaders."

Planned to Retire

The governor had announced on May 20—that he planned to retire from public life at the end of his current term, but national Democratic leaders, believing he could aid the party cause in the presidential race, pleaded with him to rescind his retirement and seek a third term.

He was smiling broadly as he told Walter T. Brown, his secretary, to distribute the announcement among reporters.

His action did not come as a surprise to many of his close friends, since the governor had visited the president at his Hyde Park home over the week-end after receiving numerous ovations at the Democratic national convention.

STEPHEN SHISLER DIES AFTER BEING ILL TWO MONTHS

Stephen Shisler, 81, died at his home on W. Main street, in the apartment house at the rear of the Kroger store, Monday at 10 p. m. of complications following a two-month illness.

Mr. Shisler was named for Stephen A. Douglas, political foe of Abraham Lincoln.

Mr. Shisler was born in Hocking county, Aug. 12, 1854, the son of Jesse and Sarah Cave Shisler. He came to Pickaway county when a youth. Surviving are two sisters Mrs. Alice Kirlin, Circleville, and Mrs. Bell Walisa, Columbus.

Funeral services will be held Wednesday at 4 p. m. at the grave with Rev. O. L. Ferguson, pastor of the Church of Christ in Christian Union, officiating. Burial will be in charge of the Albaugh Co.

REP. ZIONCHECK TO TAKE PLANE FROM CHICAGO

Seattle Solon Cries "I'll Be Back," as He Leaves Nation's Capital

PATROLMAN WITH HIM

Washington Police Guard "Madcap Solon" from Arrest in His Office

CHICAGO, June 30.—(UP)—Rep. Marion A. Zioncheck is planning to fly from Chicago to Seattle tonight, reservations at Northwest Airlines Inc., revealed today.

"We'll take him if he isn't drunk, and if he's docile," airline officials said.

ABOARD "ZIONCHECK SPECIAL" ENROUTE TO SEATTLE, June 30.—(UP)—A sombre and chastened congressman, Marion A. Zioncheck was enroute home today, hoping to prove his sanity and to redeem himself.

He had escaped from a sanitarium for mental cases and had successfully fought off all efforts to return to confinement. He left Washington at midnight, aided by Capitol police who held off Maryland police wanting to arrest him as a fugitive from justice.

Zioncheck was guarded closely by Capitol Patrolman George Bishop who insisted he was traveling with him as a "companion," not as a guard. He permitted no one to approach their drawing room, permitted no passengers in the pullman except those who had space in it, and attempted to keep those passengers out of the aisles.

"Zioncheck is to see no one," he said. "He must have absolute quiet."

Studying His Answer

Behind the closed door of the drawing room, Zioncheck pondered just what he would tell his constituents who will pass on the question of his re-election this fall.

"Whatever it is," he said, "I'll be good."

Jauntily, he insisted that he was sane; that his confinement, first in a Washington hospital, later in the Maryland sanitarium, had been caused by the "persecution" of unnamed persons. He escaped Sunday morning, he said, because he didn't care to be persecuted any longer and feared he might actually lose his mind because of the proximity of genuine lunatics.

His exit from the scene of many of his wildest escapades was accomplished.

LABOR RELATIONS MEASURE IS HIT BY APPEAL COURT

CINCINNATI, June 30.—(UP)—

The U. S. Court of Appeals ruled today in the first case of its kind affecting the automobile industry that the National Labor Relations board has no authority to issue an order on relations between a company and its employees where the company is engaged purely in intra-state business.

The decision was given in the case of the Fruehauf Trailer Co. of Detroit, which had appealed from an order of the labor relations board on the ground that it was not engaged in interstate commerce.

GROVER SMITH NAMED IN DIVORCE PETITION

Hattie May Smith, Lancaster pike, filed suit for divorce, custody of two children and alimony in common pleas court Monday against Grover Smith, now in the county jail, recently bound to the grand jury on an assault and battery charge.

They were married Nov. 30, 1913 in Williamsport and have two adopted children. Mrs. Smith charges neglect and cruelty.

GOVERNMENT TO SPEED AID TO DROUGHT-STRICKEN AREA

WASHINGTON, June 30.—(UP)—Administration leaders, fearing another catastrophic drought equal to that of 1934, worked feverishly today on plans for relief of hundreds of thousands of farmers.

Drought, intensive heat waves, devastating grasshoppers, and grain-destroying chinch-bugs combined to plague farmers throughout the area from the Ohio and Missouri rivers to the Canadian border.

Immediate problem was to find a method of providing sustenance for farmers in the spring wheat section—North and South Dakota, Colorado and Wyoming—whose crops have been burned out by drought and blistering heat.

A special committee, appointed by Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace, planned daily meetings until the drought is broken, coordinating work of various relief agencies—WPA, AAA, the Resettlement administration, and the Federal Surplus Commodity corporation.

The group hoped to have definite relief recommendations ready for submission to President Roosevelt later this week. Enlargement of WPA and RA activities in order to pump cash into the area, inauguration of a cattle purchase program, and expansion of FSCC activities all were discussed at the committee's first meeting yesterday.

Observers believed that the first concrete step of the federal government probably would be institution of new WPA and RA projects in the spring wheat area, inasmuch as that area has been hardest hit thus far.

A federal cattle purchase program, it was believed, would be Continued on Page Eight

CHICAGO, June 30.—(UP)—Police "are not overlooking the possibility" that Jimmy Thompson killed his mother, Mrs. Florence Thompson Castle, night club hostess, police Capt. William O'Brien said today.

MARKET IS FIRM

NEW YORK, June 30.—(UP)—The stock market firmed today in extremely dull trading. Chrysler led the parade, going to 112 1/2 where it equaled its high since 1929, but later slipped back to around the previous close. Short covering in American Telephone sent that issue to 168 where it was 1 5/8 higher.

Only Three Days in 30 Produce Moisture, Dr. Clarke Discloses

The driest June in a number of years came to an end Tuesday with forecasts claiming showers are just around the corner, but failing to put in an appearance. During the 30 days of the first summer month only three rains were recorded—one of .7 of an inch on June 5, another of .36 of an inch the following day, and the third of .17 of an inch June 21. The month's total was 1.23 inches. Normal rainfall for June is from 3.5 to 4 inches.

In June, 1935 the rainfall amounted to 3.35 inches.

SEARCHERS FIND HUBERT WILKINS SAFE IN NORWAY

OSLO, Norway, June 30.—(UP)—

The Norwegian-American steamer Stavangerjord established contact today with Sir Hubert Wilkins, explorer, aboard the expedition ship Wyatt Earp.

Wilkins, informed that his wife was so anxious regarding the expedition that she appealed to President Roosevelt for cooperation in locating it, explained the Wyatt Earp had been delayed by unfavorable weather.

"But all is well aboard," Wilkins informed the master of the Stavangerjord. "We expect to reach Norway in mid-July."

The Wyatt Earp was about 900 miles due east of Newfoundland.

FIREWORKS SALE DECREE BALKED BY STATE'S LAW

Circleville's "antiquated" ordinance prohibiting the sale of fireworks in the city will not be enforced.

This was certain Tuesday morning following a statement from Mayor W. J. Graham. Several weeks ago the old ordinance was dusted off and read to merchants who planned to sell fireworks.

Since that time the mayor has learned the ordinance conflicts with state regulations to such an extent it would be practically impossible to enforce it.

State laws permit the sale of fireworks during a certain period and regulate the size and quantity of powder used in the articles. Many merchants had stocks of fireworks on display Tuesday.

The mayor added the ordinance prohibiting the explosion of fireworks in the city would be carried out to the fullest extent and issued orders to the police department to bring in all offenders.

FRENCH STRIKE SPREADS SOUTH

Shipping Union With 10,000 Listed May Walk-Out

French labor disturbances, keeping 100,000 workers on strike in 20 departments, spread to Algiers today.

A general strike was threatened by the shipping union at Marseilles and 10,000 shipyard workers at Saint Nazaire, refusing to return to their jobs, were joined by building trades workers. At Metz 25,000 remained out in the Moselle industrial area.

Bookies at Paris race tracks continued idle and Riviera hotel keepers kept their buildings locked against strikers.

Reynolds Packard, United Press staff correspondent now visiting New York from Paris, expressed opinion that French workers are forcing Premier Leon Blum to more conservative policies. Ed L. Keen, United Press vice president with headquarters in Paris, cabled that French workers are striking to assure fulfillment of the popular front government's campaign promises.

Twenty petit jurors are receiving a lot of legal mail these days. Last Saturday they were sent cards to report Wednesday at 9 a. m. for the trial of Kenneth Kneese on a robbery charge.

Kneese changed his plea Monday and was sentenced to 10 to 25 years in the Ohio penitentiary.

Carls were then sent to the jurors not to report Wednesday but to be in court next Monday for a civil case. The civil case was postponed indefinitely Tuesday and more cards were sent out for the jurors not to appear until they were again notified.

The case postponed was that of Nellie Stuckey, Washington township, against C. A. Leist, as executor of the estate of Ella Greenlee, and others. The suit asked $5,492.42 on an account. E. A. Brown, attorney in the case, reported an important witness would be unable to appear.

COUNTY REMOVES FOUR FROM PENSIONER LIST

Four Circleville residents, who have secured work on WPA, were dropped from the blind pension roll Monday by the county commissioners. They will be restored to the pension list when WPA ceases.

In conformity with the Ohio Blind law, twelve persons over 65 years of age, will receive no blind pensions after July 1. Under new regulations the age limit is 18 to 65 years. Those over 65 must apply for old-age pensions.

PORT FARLEY TO LEAVE POST IS HEARD AGAIN

WASHINGTON, June 30.—(UP)—Reports that James A. Farley soon will be granted a leave of absence as postmaster general were revived today in official quarters.

Farley indicated several months ago that he contemplated devoting all of his efforts to the chairmanship of the Democratic National committee, a post to which he was re-elected in Philadelphia last week.

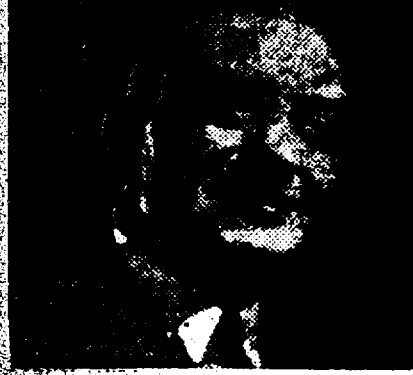

He is reliably reported to have asked President Roosevelt for

"Why I Switched to Dodge"

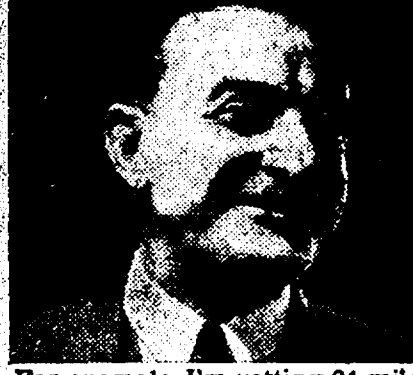

by GEORGE DEWITT SHEETS, Cranford, N. J.

I traded in my small car to get a big Dodge "Beauty Winner." It was one of the best moves I ever made.

Why? Because, in the long run, I figure this big Dodge is actually going to cost me less than the small car I had.

For example, I'm getting 21 miles per gallon of gasoline—and I haven't added any oil between changes. And Dodge is so easy to buy! One can get a Dodge for not much more than $25 per month! It's easy to see why more people buy Dodge cars than any other make, with the exception of the three lowest-priced cars!

Tall Tales

WILL HAMILTON went to the office of his good friend, Dr. G. L. Hitler, to have some work done on his teeth.

Before getting into the chair he fumbled around in his pocket for several seconds, long enough to attract the attention of the dentist.

"You don't need to pay me in advance," said the dentist.

"I'm not going to," was the reply, "I'm only counting my money before you give me the gas."

leave for duration at least of the political campaign. Mr. Roosevelt's return to the capital today may clear the way for such an announcement.

Questioned at Philadelphia during the Democratic National convention regarding the reports, Farley declined to either confirm or deny them. Such reports, he said, have been current for two years.

From other sources, however, it was learned the two-job cabinet member plans to relinquish his postmaster generalship. W. W. Howes, now first assistant postmaster general, will be named acting postmaster, it was said.

But, Farley pressed for a direct answer as to whether his resignation was imminent, evaded:

"You never can tell," he said.

FAYETTE STORES PLAN FRIDAY CELEBRATION

WASHINGTON C. H., June 30.—For the benefit of Friday night shoppers, Washington C. H. merchants are sponsoring a half-hour fireworks display at 10 p. m. at Wilson field. The Business and Civic Association committees are in charge of arrangements.

A contract has been signed with the Cincinnati Fireworks Display Co., to present the display. The stores will observe their usual Saturday night hours, Friday, and will be closed on July Fourth. Immediately after shopping hours aerial salutes will announce the opening of the display.

Squadron without fear... they'll try anything once... or twice—if they live! Motors whining... propellers screaming... five miles up... five-miles-a-minute down... straight for the ground—and glory!

Thus do the test pilots, unsung heroes of aviation, live and die. Fittingly, Columbia Picture has produced a picture dedicated to these brave men: it is called "Devil's Squadron," and it opens today at the Cliftona theatre with Richard Dix in the starring role.

Others in the picture are Karen Morley, Lloyd Nolan, Shirley Ross, Billy Burrud, Gene Morgan and Thurston Hall.

AT THE GRAND

Paul Muni, who has the stellar role in the Cosmopolitan production, "The Story of Louis Pasteur," which comes to the Grand Theatre as a First National release, does not think an actor should be given special credit for rendering a convincing performance.

"Every portrayal should be convincing. That's one of the prime factors in the job of acting," he says. "It's no more flattering than to tell a river pilot he knows the stream well, or to congratulate a postman for his knowledge of the city streets."

It has come to our attention on several occasions that some of the people of this community have had the opinion that our organization operating here was only established for a temporary period.

We have been located in Newark for the past thirteen years and in our humble opinion feel that we have been successful, and we believe that we can duplicate this business record in Circleville. During this time we have handled the complete line of the Frigidaire Corporation (the product of General Motors) both as authorized sales and service dealers.

We had been looking for a community in which to establish another store, and of the many places that we investigated, we were so greatly impressed with the people and business establishments that we immediately came to the conclusion this was the place we wanted to locate.

We also want to take this opportunity of thanking the many friends we have made in the limited time we have been located here, and wish to assure you that we are here to serve you for any of your refrigerator needs, whether it be sales or service.

A RETAILERS' ASSOCIATION
THE Chamber of Commerce will make an effort this evening to form a Retailer Merchants' association for the benefit of Circleville and its trading area. A meeting is planned at the Pickaway Country Club at 6:30 o'clock. Every merchant is welcome to attend.
A retailers' association could be of great benefit to the entire community. Many questions, now difficult for the merchants to solve as individuals, could be disposed of with great ease through the association.
It is hoped that Circleville merchants will look far enough ahead, help organize the association by attending tonight's meeting, and, eventually reap the harvests to be provided through the organization.

PRODUCTION-EMPLOYMENT
PRODUCTION increase running ahead of employment increase is to be expected at some stages in a reviving market. That has been the situation in the last few months. It brought from certain political sources slacker intimations against business, as though business was purposely holding back. President Green of the American Federation of Labor has felt moved,
too, to say some things about the little reliance to be placed on private industry,
and these could not fail to disturb the worker.

Last employment statistics are now
out. They show that production increase and employment increase, taking a long-range view, are running fairly parallel.
The former is now 83 per cent of the 1929 volume and the latter at 81 per cent. In the last twelve months the increases have been 18 and 15 per cent, respectively. The gains are significant, for it was in May of last year that the NRA went out of existence to the accompaniment of doleful forecasts from exponents of government over all that unemployment increases and wage cuts would become the rule. As a matter of fact the Department of Labor figures show 650,000 more at work with payrolls up $36,000,000 weekly. More than that, employment rose over the month before,
which Secretary Perkins declared "most unusual" because, according to the normal trend, it should have been less.

WHY, INDEED?
THE Rev. A. A. Macleod, field secretary of the Sons of Temperance, has written to the Nova Scotia Government at this late date to learn why coffee sent down to Dr.
D. E. Robertson and Alfred Scadding, entombment in a Moose River gold mine for ten days, a part of this time with the body of a dead companion, was "fortified" with brandy.

This is a question which provides a basis for unrestrained speculation, all of it along interesting lines. It may be that the workers above were interested in leading the imprisoned men astray and transforming them into slaves of drink. There is the possibility also that they had in mind the

ANNA BARS WASHINGTON LIFE
WASHINGTON—Anna Roosevelt Boettiger is the apple of her father's eye, and she deserves to be. Vivacious, frank, straight-from-the-shoulder, she has the charm of both parents, her mother's energy and a surprising amount of common sense.

The other Roosevelt children have a long way to go before they wear off the rough edges, but Anna makes up for a lot of their short-comings.

Probably the best criterion by which to appraise any woman, whether she lives in a tenement or sits in the seats of the mighty, is her children. Raising children in the White House may lack the physical disadvantages of a tenement, but in some respects it is harder.

Anna's chief problem during the two years—Sistie and Buzzie lived there was to keep them from thinking they occupied a position more favored than others. With newspapers constantly publishing their pictures, with every adult turning to stare
at them on the street, with other children whispering about them in school, this was no easy job.

DALL DIVORCE
The two years which Anna Dall (her name at that time) spent in the White House were not particularly happy ones,
although on the surface they seemed to be.

She was, naturally, the most sought-after young woman in Washington, and there were few functions of any importance to which she was not invited. She attended many, always made friends, remembered names, was never shy. Hauteur was not in her make-up. She had no airs or affectations.

However, there was a strain underneath
it all, because she was not living with her husband and yet did not have a divorce.

At the age of 19, Anna had married Curtis B. Dall, a very polite and pleasant young man, who made a good appearance and worked reasonably hard. It was one of those adolescent infatuations that did not take. Dall was sedentary, Anna was on the qui vive every moment.

Even before her father was elected, a divorce obviously was in the offing. Anna took the campaign trip with her father,
but without Dall. And after the Roosevelts entered the White House, Dall came down for only an occasional weekend visit. It was easy to see that Anna was chiefly waiting for the publicity following her brother Elliott's divorce to wane before going out to Reno.

This she finally did, before her father
wanted her to, but with the complete approval of her mother, who always has contended that the children must "make their own lives."

development of a little night club atmosphere down in the shaft, where the two survivors of the tragedy were living on intimate terms with death. It may be, too, that the rescue workers who sent the coffee and brandy down did so in the belief that the drink might stimulate and sus-tain the flickering spark of life.

These are, of course, only a few of the possible answers to the questions of why coffee, reinforced with brandy, was sent to the men entombed for ten days in the bottom of a mine. The answer of the Nova Scotia Government will be awaited with interest.

Joan went out very quietly.

CHAPTER 35
JOAN FORGOT to think of herself.
Long after the last cadence of Julian's voice was silent, his last simple statement was there between them with its dramatic import of his quiet acceptance of a thing that must have been a tragedy.
"I fell in love too late!" he had said.
Joan wanted to comfort him, to voice the sweet sorrow his words had stirred within her. Her own loss of love, her belief that she would never again experience an emotion so tender receded before the wave of sympathy she felt toward him. She was sorry in her heart for the woman who could not have, or did not want Julian's love. He should have had everything! His cup should have been brimming over.
"I'm sorry," she said, touching his hand and his heart.
"It's all right," he said, and then
they talked of other things.
What manner of woman could she have been? Perhaps she was already married, this woman that Julian loved. Perhaps even now she grieved for what could not be. Whoever she was and wherever she might be, Joan found herself thinking of her in the days that followed.
And her own heart she could not understand when Julian did not want her to marry and leave him because she suffered a feeling of loss at the thought that Julian might have married the woman he loved and so the intimate, delicate relationship between them—for a fact that it was employer and employee, however friendly —might not be completely full.
Had that relationship been of a different sort, had Joan not lived beneath the same roof with Julian and if their work had been of a nature less dramatic, their destinies might have been clarified to both of them each might have spared the other pains. But that was not to be.
Thinking of Donald, Joan was sometimes to wish that she could run away, that he had never asked her to marry him, that he had not tempted her with an escape from a lonely life. Donald did tempt her; he wooed her in the little ways that make strong bonds of silken threads. He sent her white lilies that made her think of earlier springs when she had discovered the quickening of life in her first love for him. Because it was love, she clung to the belief that it was the greatest, not knowing that a woman's heart is often capable of many deeper loves.
He sent her a biography she had spoken of once and forgotten. He took her to indoor polo matches and outdoor art exhibits. He took her to the opera and to marionette shows.
He bought her an absurd little toy kitten and pointed out the pear-shaped diamond he said he wanted to buy for her the minute that she would permit him to do so.
And all the while that she was doing
the little things that made her love him, she was facing the increasing knowledge that she was not in love with him, that she wanted to keep this forever as a friendship and not as a marriage. Yet he didn't dare tell him that. She was afraid to give up something that had made her happy.
Suppose that Julian were to go away, to want to get another secretary? All manner of vague suppositions suggested themselves to her.
She couldn't go back to teaching school and ever be happy again. As for another secretary, where else could she ever be happy?
She needed Donald and Donald needed her, else why should he ask her to marry him.
"Why do you want to marry me?"
she asked him.
"Maybe, I'm in love with you," he answered. "But of course you know I don't believe very much in that sort of thing. If being proud to be

Poems That Live

THE SEA GYPSY
I am fevered with the sunset,
I am fretful with the bay,
For the wander-thirst is on me
And my soul is in Cathay.
There's a schooner in the offing,
With her topsails shot with fire,
And my heart has gone aboard
her
For the Islands of Desire.
I must forth again tomorrow!
With the sunset I must be
Hull down on the trail of rapture
In the wonder of the Sea.

Daughters of 1812 Meet At Mt. Sterling Park

Number of Circleville Members Take Part in Gathering

The Anderson-Neff Park at Mount Sterling was selected for the meeting of the Jonathan Alder Chapter of the Daughters of 1812 when they met Monday for an all-day gathering.

Members from Circleville, London and Mt. Sterling attended.

Miss Louise Neff, Mrs. Oscar Finley and Mrs. Clark Beale of Mt. Sterling were hostesses. An old-fashioned picnic dinner with plenty of food was served at the noon hour.

The afternoon's program consisted of a very interesting paper on "School Lands of Ohio" by Mrs. Edgar Baker of Mt. Sterling.

Attending were Mrs. Baker, Mrs. Beale, Mrs. Finley, Miss Neff, Mrs. Frank Hott, Mrs. Wilson McCafferty, and Mrs. Stella Miller of Mt. Sterling; Mrs. Jessie Chance, Mrs. John Copeland, Mrs. John Ellsworth, Mrs. Mack Taylor, Mrs. Cannon Clark, and Mrs. James Martin, London; Mrs. John Boggs, Miss Charlotte Caldwell, Mrs. Orion King, Mrs. J. I. Nickerson, Mrs. G. L. Schiear, Mrs. Ella Hornbeck, Mrs. W. L. Mack, and Mrs. Eleanor Bissell of Circleville.

MARSHALL WINS FROM ALI BABA TITLE BOUT

Less Than 40 Minutes Required to End Reign of Turkish Heavy

COLUMBUS, June 30.—(UP)—For the first time since Frank Catch relinquished his crown in 1913, the heavyweight wrestling world today claimed to have an undisputed champion.

Everett Marshall, husky blond from La Junta, Colo., cleared the muddled situation here last night when he pinned Ali Baba, the bearded Kurd, in 39 minutes and 12 seconds. Marshall won with a clean and top body hold.

Marshall who has been a persistent challenger for the title for the past several years had all the best of the bout that attracted a crowd of 9,000 persons.

Marshall was the aggressor throughout and at the 35 minute mark had built up a considerable advantage. Shortly thereafter he threw Ali Baba from the ring and then fell out on top of him.

The tumble apparently dazed the Turk and he showed little resistance back. The Coloradoan slammed Ali Baba to the mat and then pinned him.

The defeat ended a very brief reign for the Turk. He gained his claim to the championship at Detroit April 24 when he threw Dick Shikat of Germany.

About This And That In Many Sports

Marshall Is Victor

Everett Marshall won—The crowd was some over 8,000 while estimates said it would be 18,000—Many Circleville persons were there, and all had a good time because Marshall is their favorite—The big fellow, blonde and good-looking for a grappler, lives in Columbus and should make a popular champion—There are probably a dozen in the country who could blast him to the canvas, but he'll make a sock full of money out of it if he keeps it for six months—More power to him ***

Reds Get Attention

The Cincinnati Reds are grasping the attention of thousands of fans in the tri-state district—The Redlegs are a game back of the first division with the Giants in fourth place—If Charlie Dessen's boys can get past that fourth notch no telling where they will climb—Paul Derringer bumped off the Chicago Cubs Monday night with more than 33,000 in the stands—Ken O'Dea, former Red Bird, who has been slugging the ball for the Cubs, lost the game for his team—He dropped Derringer's high foul; had he caught it the game would have been over—Derringer than singled to drive in two runs—The score was 4-3 ***

Racing at Lancaster

Thoroughbred racing will be resumed at Lancaster fairgrounds July 4 with Harry Shepard's organization running the show—The big performance will continue through July 18 with many fast horses to be entered—South-central Ohio has long been famous for its fine horses until the last dozen years—At Lancaster in the 60s the stable of John Reber was internationally famous—At Chillicothe the establishment of Harness and McConnell gave the turf some fine runners—In Circleville Cary Short was known for miles around—30,000 saw the opening card at Lancaster last summer ***

Red Sox, Yankees Start "Crucial" Early Series

Boston Seven and Half Games Behind New York After Disastrous Journey West; McCarthy Men Showing
Power, Although Pitchers Show Poor Form

NEW YORK, June 30.—(UP)—Tom Yawkey's million dollar Boston Red Sox limped into town today to fight their way into the pennant picture with the New York Yankees, just returned from a western excursion where their mighty bombing still echoes in American league ball parks.

The "gold stockings" attempt to narrow the gap of seven and a half games which separates them from the leading Bronx blasters in a five tilt series which begins with a double-header this afternoon.

The Yawkeymen's trip through the west was as disastrous as the Yankees' was successful. Joe Cronin and his boys won only four games while losing nine. Manager Joe McCarthy brought his Yankees home with nine victories in 14 contests.

The Yankees mightily good about their margin of leadership at this stage of the Fourth of July season, at which time the league leader is reputed to have the best chance of copping the confalon. But McCarthy nor his club are boasting about their pennant chances yet. Because in three out of the last four years when they have led the pack on Independence day, they have been upset before September.

The only sad part of the Yankees' western invasion was the ineffectiveness of their hurlers, only four of whom went the distance. Red Ruffing accomplished it twice and Monte Pearson and Lefty Gomez once each. And the Yankees pitching woes date even farther back. In their last 24 games, 15 starting hurlers have been blasted from the mound or had to be relieved because of wildness.

Lou Gehrig, the baby of the 1927 murderers row, leads today's Bronx bombers. He hit for the circuit six times on the Yankees' triumphant tour, bringing his season total to 18. He hit at a clip of .534 and rose to the batting lead of the American league. New York's sensational rookie, Di Maggio, hit .368 and belted out five home runs.

ITALIAN TO GAIN TITLE GO AFTER SURPRISING KAYO

NEW YORK, June 30.—(UP)—Tony Marino, the batman Italian battler from Pittsburgh has earned a title bout with Champion Sixto Escobar by a surprising 14th round knockout over Baltazar Sangshile of Spain, European claimant to the bantamweight crown.

Sangshile waded right in at the opening bell at Dyckman oval last night and dropped Marino for a count of seven before the bout was a minute old. With a terrific barrage of left hooks and jabs to the face, Marino came back strong to win the second, third and fourth, splitting a cut over the Spaniard's eye, and bringing blood gushing from his nose.

But Sangshile rallied in the fifth and gave Marino a terrific lacing up until the 13th, when the Pittsburgher sent him back on his heels with a short right. In the 14th a short left hook to the stomach, and two crashing rights to the head, put Sangshile down on his hands and knees for the count of 10.

Veterans are doing their Christmas shopping while there is a Santa Claus.

MAXIE BAER'S MANAGER SEEKS BRADDOCK FIGHT

DALLAS, Tex., June 30.—(UP)—Maxie Baer's manager, Ancil Hoffman, was due to confer with Texas Centennial exposition commissioners here today on the possibility of matching the former heavyweight champion against James J. Braddock, present titleholder.

Hoffman said he had not received an answer to a challenge he sent Braddock.

"Max is ready to fight anybody now," Hoffman said last night. "He's serious for the first time in his life and he's in great shape. Maxie's present fighting weight is 222.

SAINTS SWEEP KASEYS IN 7 TO 3 CONTEST

BY UNITED PRESS
The second place St. Paul Saints made a clean sweep of series with Kansas City, thoroughly lambasting the broken Blues in the only game played in the association yesterday.

St. Paul batsmen hammered Moncrief and Vance for a total of 17 hits, scoring seven times. The Blues reached Spencer for nine scattered hits, made only three tallies.

On March 3, 1922 the Franklin county sheriff and five deputies raided a cock fight attended by about 200 men in Harrison township near the county line. The fights were held in a hog barn. When the officers learned they were across the Franklin county line they called Sheriff Joe West. Sheriff West collected approximately $800 from the men to appear later for hearings. None ever appeared. Men were present from Canton, Columbus, Akron, Chillicothe, Westerville, Dayton and many other Ohio cities.

Just as in Columbus' case, we may find prosperity again while looking for something else.

Bowes to Change Broadcast Night in September

MAJOR TO MOVE TO NEW AIRWAY, TOO, IS REPORT

What Is Best Time to Reach Audiences? Speakers Ask

Major Edward Bowes, the maestro of the amateurs not only will change sponsors in September but networks and broadcast days, too. The gentle-voiced major-domo of the simon-pure air shows will present his amateur hours each week from 9 to 10 p. m. eastern standard time, on Thursdays. The major will also be heard over the Columbia chain. Heretofore Bowes has always broadcast over NBC and usually on Sundays.

WHAT TIME BEST?
ONE of the major problems facing those astute gentlemen

guiding this year the national campaigns of their political parties has nothing to do with their opponents or issues, national or international.

The problem is this: when is the best time for candidates and speakers for candidates to be on the air with their vote-winning—so they hope—messages?

The evening hours, of course, naturally reach more listeners than any other period but on a good many nights the choice hours have been set aside for programs which have great popularity among the radio public.

THIS LISTENER has heard a considerable group of radio fans expressing themselves on the matter of political speeches supplanting their favorite programs. The two major political conventions caused the elimination of some highly-favored programs and, from comment this column has heard, a good portion of the public resented this.

Resentment is the one thing campaign managers certainly do not wish to incur. But what can they do?

How the John Hamiltons and Jim Farleys of today must long for the good old days when there were no such problems to solve and a campaign consisted chiefly of red fire and brass band parades and a glamorous tour for candidates around the country.

BACK-SEAT DRIVER:
What should a husband do when his wife insists on driving from the back-seat?

How can a woman make her husband shave on Sunday?

Any husbands and wives of the radio audience who have been troubled by these momentous problems can discover the answers by listening to "Husbands and Wives," the new human interest program, conducted by Sedley Brown, and Allie Lowe Miles, which makes its network debut on Sunday, July 5.

Successful for the last year on local New York Station WOR, "Husbands and Wives" comes to

the network every Sunday at 6:30 p. m. (EST).

Members of the radio audience are actually invited to come to the microphone and give their views on the topics of the evening and those invited are selected on the basis of letters written to the conductors of the program. That is, listeners who write in the most interesting solutions to domestic problems which they have themselves solved, or think they have, will be asked to tell the nation-at-large about it.

Brown and Mrs. Miles don't guarantee that husbands troubled with back-seat driving wives will get a perfect solution by listening to the first broadcast, for instance. But the Milquetoasts of the steering wheel will at least learn what some kindred soul did in the same situation. The same applies to the wives who can't make their husbands shave on Sunday.

Another question to be discussed at the July 5 "meeting," as the broadcasts are called, is: Should a husband take his wife with him on vacations? The conductors say that questions like that bring fighting answers.

company by typical Zioncheck pyrotechnics. Capitol police accompanied him, eager to get him out of the capital and even the proximity of the District of Columbia, anxious lest Washington police or Maryland police delay his exit, one by serving a warrant charging assault, the other by serving one charging him with being a fugitive from the sanitarium. Camera flashbulbs exploded, throwing an eerie light over the congressman's overwrought face. Movie cameras ground; reports bombarded him with questions.

I'll Be Back

Zioncheck's last word to the capital was one of defiance. Strolling through the station gates, smoking a long cigar, he turned suddenly and shouted:

"I'll be back, all right."

The conductor called all aboard, and Zioncheck hopped nimbly onto his pullman.

His departure ended a particularly frenzied 12 hours for capitol police, who had been forced to protect him while he remained barricaded in his official suite in the house office building, and a frenzied six months for the capitol district at large.

Early New Year's day a wild man took over an apartment house lobby, amused himself by playing with the telephone switchboard, and managed to wake up all the tenants. The congressman was Marion Zioncheck, who until then had a reputation as a quiet, efficient congressman.

The Zioncheck escapades, each one more out of keeping with his previous behavior than the preceding one, followed in rapid succession. He was arrested in Washington, in Virginia, in North Carolina for speeding. A lady admirer telephoned home, he liked her voice, and straightaway married her. They honeymooned in Puerto Rico and the Virgin islands, where he was speedily involved in difficulties for speeding and fighting with the natives.

Invented Zipper

Returning to Washington, they stopped in New York for a few wild days, during the course of which Zioncheck and his wife, at his urging waded in the pool at Rockefeller center and he invented the potent cocktail—the Zioncheck zipper.

Back in Washington, the erstwhile quiet and studious congressman was involved in difficulties with his landlady. While news cameramen snapped pictures, he knocked the landlady unconscious and dragged her out of his apartment into the corridor. Then Mrs. Zioncheck left him and he ran about Washington looking for her, stopping at the White House to leave President Roosevelt a gift of empty beer bottles.

GOVERNMENT TO SPEED AID TO DROUGHT-STRICKEN AREA

mapped out but held up as an emergency step to be put in operation only if the drought continues for an extended period.

Such a program, if undertaken, would resemble the cattle program of 1934, when the federal government bought thousands of head of cattle, transferred them to areas where feed was more plentiful, and distributed much of the beef as relief rations.

The problem was discussed yesterday in the office of Secretary of Agriculture Wallace. Acting Budget Director Daniel W. Bell, RA Administrator Rexford Guy Tugwell, assistant WPA Administrator Aubrey Williams, and Assistant AAA Administrator Jesse Tappe, participated.

WPA Administrator Harry L. Hopkins will preside today at a meeting in St. Paul, to which state and federal relief officials have been invited. Hopkins said he hoped for a complete survey on problems facing all nearby states, and said he would decide on whether to allot additional funds after the conference.

Reports to the agriculture department and the weather bureau indicated that while a major portion of the spring wheat crop already has been burned out, other crops can be saved if it rains in July.

Officials expressed concern over reports that grasshoppers had attacked large areas in Iowa, Missouri, and Indiana, and were expected to hit Kansas, Nebraska and Wisconsin.

Chinch bugs, always feared by farmers, were beginning to appear in large numbers in central Illinois.

KEATON GOES TO JAIL; WIFE-BEATING CHARGED

Paris Keaton, 54, Half avenue, was bound to the grand jury under $1,000 bond Monday by Mayor W. J. Graham on a charge of assault and battery filed by Patrolman Alva Shaeten. He denied the charge of beating his wife, Thelma, in a quarrel Sunday night. Keaton was unable to furnish bond and was transferred to the county jail.

the thresher was blown around; limbs were broken off big trees; shutters were torn off houses. The only property loss reported in the city was at the home of Miss Elizabeth Fisser, S. Scioto street, where a tree limb damaged the roof.

Temperature at 93

Monday's temperature climbed as high as 93 degrees before declining. Sixty-six was the lowest mark during the night.

While June, 1936 saw only three days in Circleville, a year ago the same month brought 17 in which rain was recorded. Dr. H. R. Clarke, weatherman, delved further into his records Tuesday morning to find that the rainiest June in recent years was in 1934 when 6.39 inches were listed. There were 14 rainy days in that month.

BY UNITED PRESS

Parched farmlands in northern and central Ohio were drenched during the night by a rainstorm which agricultural experts estimated benefited the state by several million dollars.

Ohio crops—particularly corn, wheat, oats, hay and fruits—had reached the point where lack of moisture each day was exacting a heavy toll and was heading the state toward an almost complete crop failure. Plant life had been baking and withering in the fields all this month.

The Ohio farm bureau estimated that last night's rain was worth more than $3,000,000 to farmers.

The state weather bureau in Columbus reported the average rain fall over Ohio at .33 inches. In some places near Lake Erie the precipitation was recorded at 1.11 inches, and was the first measurable amount of rain in about three weeks.

Pastures were expected to be revived. Grassy field had been drying up until livestock feeding had become a serious problem.

Wind, lightning and hail accompanied the summer showers in some places. At McComb, Hancock county, a grain elevator was struck by lightning and burned to the ground, with $15,000 loss.

A bachelor could show off his wealth, too. He could get a wax dummy and hang swell clothes on it.
